

Staff and customers at the Room Outside Conservatories in Chichester raising money for Cancer Research by selling coffee and cakes

Fundraising for cancer research is sweet success

A COMPANY in Chichester has helped raise £472 to help fund research into cancer.

Staff at Room Outside Conservatories in Quarry Lane and their families made themselves busy baking cakes and invited customers along to enjoy refreshments and buy tickets for a raffle, with prizes donated by businesses in the area.

The event ran from 10am until 3pm and proceeds will be split between Race For Life and Cancer Research UK.

The event was organised after employee Susan Green decided to sign up to this year's Race For Life event. She said the day had gone very well.

"In today's economic climate it was a fantastic amount to raise."
